TO PASS ON 1100 BILLS

EFFORTS WILL BE MADE TO KEEP SESSION WITHIN
60-DAY LIMIT

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 28.—Indications are that the determination to keep the first session of the legislature within the sixty-day limit and to hold the number of bills down to a minimum will be carried out, although it will not be done without a struggle. Already the combined houses show a total of about 1100 bills, but this is still far short of the number introduced at the last session, which totaled about 4000.

The present week is the last of the first session and will end the introduction of bills. From the number yet to be introduced may be mentioned the non-partisan measure, amendments to the initiative, referendum and recall, the rural credits bill, etc.

Last week was devoid of excitement unless the suspense attendant upon the passage of the revenue and taxation measure may be termed exciting. The state controller estimates the receipts for the next two years at $33,266,800. His estimate of expenditures for the same period is $15,432,802. In addition to this the total general appropriation bill as recommended carries $15,358,200; special appropriation for established projects recommended are $3,288,926.74; special appropriations for new projects recommended amount to $692,500; allowance for needs not reported recommended $500,000; university fund three-cent tax recommended $1,865,435. A total budget of $36,137,863.74, leaving a deficiency in revenue for the sixty-seventh and sixty-eighth fiscal years of $2,871,063.74. The abolition of the poll tax causes a loss of revenue for the next two years of $1,700,000; the abolition of the corporation license tax causes a further loss of revenue of $1,550,000, and it is said that the estimated increase in tax on gross earnings of public utility corporations will be about $2,000,000 short of the estimate.

It is a question whether the state will concern itself in the loss of revenue with the abolition of the poll tax, leaving the individual counties to make good the loss. Aside from that, however, is that $2,871,063.74 which had to be made up. This was done largely by increasing the tax on public utilities, corporation franchises by the following percentages: Railroads and street railways, 10.53; telegraph and telephone companies, 7.14; heat, light and power companies, 14.13; insurance companies, 14.28; banks, 20%; general franchises, 20%.

Among the bills introduced this week, having a general interest to farmers are assembly bill 318, by McPherson of Santa Cruz, creating a state commission market to carry on the business of receiving from producers agricultural, fishery, dairy and farm products of the state and selling and disposing of such products on commission, creating a "state market fund." The governing body is to consist of three directors at a salary of $5000 each, who shall not engage in any other line of business during their term of office; who shall devote their whole time and attention and ability to their market duties. They shall maintain at least three headquarters, one of which shall be in the city of San Francisco and the other in Los Angeles. All producers in the state shall have a right to consign and deliver their products to the state commission market, which shall sell and distribute the products to dealers and consumers and all buyers, charging a commission for handling all products, the amount of the commission being left to the commission. All settlements with producers shall be made monthly or oftener.

While there have been introduced to date approximately 1100 bills in both houses, many of these are duplicates and it is estimated that not over 700 original bills are in, and there is another estimate to the effect that not 500 of them will be enacted. Many of the bills make important changes in the existing laws governing commerce, finance, manufacturing, water, electricity, agriculture, dairying, horticulture, etc.

There are five bills regulating motor vehicles, two bills regulating the conduct and operation of hotels, building and loan commission bills, three bills affecting the importation of Chinese eggs, three bills affecting the distribution of electricity, several bills regulating cemetery removals, bill licensing and regulating stationary engineers, water bills having to do with riparian rights, with mines, the loaning of money and the use of irrigation bonds, a weekly and semi-monthly wage bill, a bill regulating the preparation and distribution of foodstuffs, a bill regulating the construction of elevators, a bill

HOLIDAY FOR INDIAN

NATIONAL FETE DAY FOR RED
MAN IS CERTAINLY AN HONOR TO HIS MERITS

Appreciative of the traditions of his race, an educated and highly intelligent Indian has gone before the "Great White Fathers" in Washington to ask them to establish Indian day, as a national annual holiday to be observed in honor of the aborigines. The suggestion is taken by a number of statesmen as possessing something of real merit, too, since the pale-face has not overworked himself in doing things for the Indians.

What the white man has done for the Indian will hardly balance on the ledger with the manner in which the white man has done the Indian. The red man has suffered from three sources—from those palefaces who have robbed him, systematically, and without scruple; from those palefaces who regard him with horror, as the most merciless and irredeemable of savages; and from those "perfidious" enthusiastic friends who have glorified the Indian beyond his deserts. As to these two extremes of appraisal of the Indian character, the truth lies in the middle ground, between the two extremes.

The Indian is not an utterly godless creature, devoid of redeeming traits. On the contrary, the typical Indian, with his bad traits, has some very pronounced and noble virtues. But he is no demi-god. He has enough virtues, however, to justify the white man in respecting him and, in view of the fact that the Almighty thought enough of him to give him the whole American continent as a home before the pale-face knew there was such a continent, it seemingly would not be out of place for the white man, who took this continent away from the Indian with no particular show of gentleness or fair dealing, to do him the honor to create a national fete day bearing his name and dedicated to him, as a race.

BE A GOOD SPORT

Glendale, as all of our readers well know, is to have auto road races on Saturday. It costs money to pull off a professional road race and since Glendale has the distinction of having a race, it is up to her citizens to be good honorable sports on that day. The Evening News does not like the word "sport," but then everything goes road-race day.

Everybody should get ready to contribute both in presence and in a financial way to Saturday's event. Don't put on a grouchy appearance if asked for an admission. If you have a bad liver, take a few liver pills at regular intervals from now until Saturday, and you will be the right kind of a sport to enjoy the races.

If you are a real dyspeptic, you will better remain in the cellar, or in the back yard somewhere, far away from the race course as possible, where the collectors can't find you. If you cannot enjoy the day yourself, do not do anything that will hinder others from enjoying the day. Be a real sport Saturday.

"WILLIAM TELL" AT THE PALACE GRAND

Schiller's immortal drama, "William Tell," is the magnificent attraction arranged for showing at the Palace Grand theater Thursday and Friday nights, January 28 and 29. The story of the legendary hero of Switzerland is said to be taken from the "chronicles" of Peterman Uterlin, clerk of the court in Lucerne and captain in the wars against Duke Charles of Burgundy. The picture starts off with realistic details, picturing the decree of Duke Albrecht of Austria summoning the Swiss of three cantons to do him homage as their king. When this proclamation is read to the liberty-loving Swiss people, they refuse to acknowledge the sovereignty of Austria. The king, however, declines to accept or ratify such a form of government and the outrageous oppression by the self-exalted ruler begins. The Swiss, characterized as a simple, peace-loving people, fail to find a leader among their race or kindred, and decide in conference to call upon a man of great physique and gentle heart, the mightiest hunter of the mountains, noted for his skill with the crossbow, William Tell. The story of the liberation of Switzerland and William Tell is known throughout the civilized world and is a visualization of this famous drama is most entertaining. It is staged on the lofty heights of the Alps, the world's most beautiful scenery, and the photography is exquisite. Special musical selections will be rendered for this production, which lovers of good music will certainly appreciate.

RACERS TRY COURSE IN PRACTICE THIS MORNING

EVERYTHING SHAPING UP FINE FOR GLENDALE'S FIRST ANNUAL ROAD RACE TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY AND SANCTIONED BY THE AMERICAN AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION—MUCH INTEREST TAKEN BY PROFESSIONALS AND AMATEURS

The entrants in Saturday's road race were out in full force for a practice run this morning and demonstrated to the onlookers that good time will be made in Saturday's race. All drivers pronounce the track in unusually good condition.

Tom Alley, that smiling little Englishman who will drive one of the Duesenbergs Saturday, is one of the pilots who must not be overlooked. Alley holds the 100 miles world's record for a circular dirt track. His time of one hour, thirty minutes and thirty seconds was sensational because it was made against a field which included some of the fastest cars in the world. He is not a reckless driver, but he uses his head at all times. He has planned this race carefully. His heart is set on winning.

Tom Alley

He is satisfied that he can show a speed fast enough to shove his Duesenberg well up into the money if not into first place. Alley has figured in most of the great road races held in this country. He does not lose his head and will not be excited at the start or at the finish, no matter where his car may place. He believes that seventy miles an hour average will win the Glendale Elks' first annual road race. Perhaps he is right. Time will tell.

Huntley Gordon is another driver who must be reckoned with in the great race. He is modest to a degree and no matter whether he wins or only succeeds in placing, he will be the same Huntley Gordon. His car is just as speedy as it was in the last race in which he figured as a winner, and the chances are strong that he will place well up in the money.

A. A. Cadwell, who will pilot his own Marmon in Saturday's race, is one of the amateur drivers who expects to win. His Marmon is particularly fast and barring accidents the moving picture man should show a speed that will equal that of any other car in this race. The course is favorable to him. Cadwell can handle his car when in the gears, and the Marmon will do seventy miles on second speed. You will agree that he has an excellent chance to place well up in the money and has a fighting chance for the capital prize offered to the man who crosses the finish line in the fastest time of the day.

Eddie O'Donnel, the winner of third place in the Corona road race, is a real sport and will be one of the contenders Saturday. He says his car is right and feels confident of victory.

Jack Callaghan, who will drive one of the Duesenberg entries, made his first appearance on the western course in the Corona road race. His Duesenberg is one of the fastest cars in this country. It will do easily 100 miles an hour and Callaghan has the advantage over a number of other drivers in that he is an expert when it comes to fast gear work. This course offers him an opportunity to show his skill.

Officials chosen for the Glendale road race Saturday are:

PUBLIC SERVICE DEPT. REPORT

The report of the public service department as published in the Evening News Wednesday has brought forth many favorable comments.

MCKINLEY'S BIRTHDAY

January 29 is the anniversary of the birth of our martyred president, William McKinley. It has become the custom to do honor to his memory by wearing a pink carnation on that day, as that was his favorite flower and he was accustomed to wearing one as a boutonniere on all occasions.

Show your respect for the memory of this peerless statesman by wearing a pink carnation tomorrow.

ROOSEVELT TO AID UNEMPLOYED IF ALLOWED

Ten thousand dollars will be Colonel Roosevelt's gift to the needs of the unemployed if he carries out a suggestion made by him in an address Tuesday night in New York. The colonel's friends said they expected him to put the idea into immediate execution.

The colonel's suggestion was made while he was commenting on the action of congress in defeating his effort to turn over to congress the Nobel peace prize of $40,000 awarded to him in 1906, to be used in the interest of industrial peace. Roosevelt said he would contribute ten thousand dollars to the unemployed "if an all-wise and omnipotent congress allows me."

REND THE AIR

A pleading lawyer caused his tones to vibrate so with emotion that they split a board in the jurybox and the jurors thought as the air was rent they had been dynamited. Even a hardened juror is not accustomed to observe a lawyer split anything more substantial than an infinitive.

NEIGHBORING CITIES

Mrs. A. R. Townsend entertained with a class party in honor of her son, Master Albert Townsend, in their beautiful home at 507 North Brand boulevard on Saturday from two to five. The guests were the members of the graduating class from the West Glendale school to the Intermediate school and their teacher, Miss Mable Douglas. The afternoon was spent playing outside games and later inside games were enjoyed. The house was beautifully decorated with red carnations intermingled with ferns. Refreshments were served at the table and there were red place cards for each guest. A surprise pie occupied the center of the table, with streamers of red ribbons to each place. Each guest pulled a ribbon and received a souvenir of the occasion. After that they needed no other entertainment as the souvenirs furnished noise for the rest of the day and all the guests departed having thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Mrs. S. W. Corwin of 419 North Central avenue will entertain the Double Five Art club next Friday afternoon. A delightful time is anticipated.

Mr. Ira Tichener, real estate editor of the Los Angeles Examiner, who for the past six months has with his family lived on Columbus avenue, has decided to locate permanently in North Glendale and has purchased a modern bungalow home on Pioneer drive.

Mrs. S. W. Corwin of 419 North Central avenue entertained as her guest at luncheon the early part of this week Mrs. Gates of Iowa, who is spending the winter in California and who has apartments at the Hotel Maryland in Pasadena at the present time.

JOHN BAPTIST LAMY

John Baptist Lamy, one of the most prominent figures in the early history of the Catholic church in the Southwest, was born in France 100 years ago. He was ordained in 1838 and then came to the United States in the diocese of Cincinnati. In 1850 he was consecrated vicar apostolic of New Mexico, which had just been acquired by the United States. He was made the first bishop of Santa Fe in 1853, and upon the erection of the metropolitan see in 1875 he was promoted archbishop. In 1885 he resigned his active duties on account of age. At the time of his resignation his diocese contained thirty-four churches and more than two hundred chapels. Archbishop Lamy died at Santa Fe on February 13, 1888.

A PATRIOTIC EDITION

The patriotic committee of the Glendale Parent-Teacher federation, of which Mrs. A. S. Chase of 1500 Riverdale drive is chairman, has announced its intention of descending upon the office of the Glendale Evening News on or about February 17, taking possession of the office and issuing a patriotic edition.

We are all ready to decamp when we see these ladies coming that they may have a clear field to carry out their plans.

This particular branch of the federation has for its object the encouraging of the love of home and country. It aims to make civic pride a general sentiment and to direct attention to the immeasurable value and importance of an international peace movement. It lends its influence to prohibit the indiscriminate use of firearms and other weapons and against the wanton destruction of harmless creatures.

The committee has already planned a number of interesting features for this number, which promises to do them credit.

ROOT'S CONCENTRATIVE ABILITY

Senator Root has great power of concentration. He would have made a great war correspondent. No matter how much shot and shell might be flying about him, he could sit and jot down what is in his mind without paying any attention to anything else. One day he was going through some papers that contained information he was sifting out. The matter was one that called for much quiet thought and reflection.

A caller arrived at the outer office. A clerk went in to the senator and told him:

"Mr. Soandso's here for an eleven o'clock appointment. It is now three minutes of eleven."

"All right; show him in at eleven," directed Mr. Root.

And during those three minutes he became just as much engrossed in the task before him as if there were nothing else in sight.

"No, Willie, dear," said mamma; "no more cakes tonight. Don't you know you cannot sleep on a full stomach?"

"Well," replied Willie, "I can sleep on my back."

Fill our rooms with paintings and with sculptures,

But we cannot

Buy with gold the old associations!

ENGLAND TAKES LOAN FROM

LONDON, Jan. 27.—An agreement was signed in London today for the loan of 5,000,000 pounds ($25,000,000) to Rumania. The money will be advanced by the Bank of England to the Bank of Rumania against Rumanian treasury bills.

The loan is a result of the visit to London of the Rumanian finance commission.

It is understood that Rumania will use the money for the purchase of war materials.

1100 BILLS BEFORE HOUSE

regulating the manufacture and distribution of dairy products and the sale of pasteurized milk, bills requiring imported crabs to be stamped, bills regulating contracts on public improvements, bills affecting insurance companies and rates, another universal eight-hour law exempting the farmer in times of harvest, graduate nurses and the canning and curing of perishable fruits and vegetables.

The proposed measures of the state Federation of Labor have not all been introduced, but probably will be by the end of this first session. Among those already in may be mentioned several state employment bureau bills, bill to abolish the property qualification of jurors, the "state factory bill" to permit the state to buy sites and engage in all lines of manufacturing and other industries, and sell the product to the people; the eight-hour bill, the weekly and semi-monthly wage bills, restricting private detectives, bill providing that no employee may be discharged on the evidence of a "spotter" without being confronted with the accuser and the evidence. There is a bill to extend the provisions of the compensation act to occupational diseases and providing a burial fund, a bill regulating the employment of minors and a bill compelling employers to provide pure drinking water for employees. The anti-injunction bill and the bill repealing the leasing clause in the alien land bill are still held back though their introduction is promised.

Senator Chandler of Fresno is still at work on the amendment to the initiative and it is possible that he may not have it introduced. Another, however, is in preparation which provides for depositing the petitions with registrars of voters, where they may be signed, the voters to be notified that such petitions are ready for signatures. The proposed measure prohibits soliciting signatures and the only persons to be authorized to carry the petitions about are deputy registrars of voters when on duty, and who must explain the contents of the petition to the voter, but is prohibited from using any arguments for or against the measure. The existing percentage of voters is maintained.

IF THE WOMEN COULD

Mr. Nathan Straus, member of a family remarkable for achievement and for largeness of heart, deprecates the war acutely. He says the women of the world ought to stop it. He goes so far as to express belief that they should do this by marching in ranks between the opposing forces.

Alas for the futility of the dream, however benign its inspiration. The women could not do this. The task represents a physical impossibility. Moreover, it is to be doubted that such an army of peace would have effect. War works a peculiar change in the conduct of men. In the fervor of desire to kill the foe, it is likely that the great guns would continue and the invading pacific tide be swept to destruction.

Women have every reason to hate war. Yet when war comes to a country and patriotic zeal is aroused, the women urge their men to go, and taunt as cowards such as refuse.

Nevertheless, they exercise a potent influence, and it is hardly to be doubted that the horrid character of the present conflict and the lack of any real reason for it, will turn them not merely to the thought of peace for all the world, but to activity in promoting plans to insure the institution of this benison. In the United States where more and more the woman is being recognized as an active element in the social structure, the part she may play will be of first importance. Here her opinion is not merely a voice, but a political potency.

When a war has been started there is no stopping it save by the attaining of a definite end. The time to prevent it is when the wily diplomat begins to breathe fire and brimstone, and call boldly to fellow citizens to go out and fight and die, he himself keeping out of range.

A CURIOUS NEST

Of all strange nests, the strangest is that of the Indian paradise fish, kept in an ordinary house aquarium. This fish is novel, not only on account of its brilliant markings, but because it breathes air, and does not, like other fish, depend for its oxygen on that set free in the water by aquatic plants. But the most remarkable thing about it is its method of building a nest. These amazing nests not only float, but are formed of air bubbles. With its mouth the fish blows the little bubbles and coats them with an adhesive or mucilaginous substance, so that they adhere and form a floating, fairylike mass, in which the eggs are laid, and in which the young are hatched. Occasionally a young fish will slip out, or apparently tumble out, of his home of bubbles, and circle away, finally falling to the bottom of the aquarium. Then one of the parents, in serious alarm at what has happened to the youngster, swims quickly to the bottom, draws the little one into its mouth, swims back to the delicate bubble mass, and literally "blows him up" because he was so careless as to fall out of bed.—St. Nicholas.

Bargains in radium can be snapped up these days. A whole grain is selling now for only $40,000.

While Glendale residents sit and look on with awe and admiration at the preparations which are being made to place Glendale on the road racing map, we must not forget to do our share of boosting for the local lodge of Elks has taken an immense burden in fostering and working out a race in the short space of two weeks' time.

One of the dangers to be guarded against in the Elks' speedfest will be to carefully watch the Pacific Electric cars which will cross the Second street crossing on Brand boulevard. The trolley cars will not be in the way of the drivers except at this one point, but care will eliminate any possibility of a smash-up.

The Reason—

why business continues good with all reliable Life-Insurance Companies

is because people of discernment are finding out that life insurance is a complete and efficient substitute for every other form of investment that aims at providing for the future. During a period of shrinkage, if it is the only asset that never shrinks in value, ought it not to displace those other assets in public estimation? Keen-sighted business men all over the country recognize that one of its most important functions is the protection which it gives against loss should the settlement of an estate require the sale of securities or property during such a period as we are now passing through. Nothing which you could possess would give you as much value and real comfort as one of our Life or Endowment Policies. Secure one at the earliest possible moment. Delay is dangerous.

NEW LIGHT ON WILLIAM PENN

Much new light on the career and character of William Penn, the English Quaker and founder of Pennsylvania, will be derived from the investigations now under way in England supervised by Prof. Albert Cook Myers of Moylan, Pa., who for four years has been delving into the records, family, sectarian and governmental, available for historical research. More than 2000 letters by Penn formerly unknown to his biographers have been unearthed, so it is said. Also many pamphlets, booklets and tracts of which Penn was a prolific writer. Four years more of similar research are looked forward to by Professor Myers before he will be in a position to begin publishing a many-volumed, definitive edition of Penn's writings, and also a formal estimate of Penn's career in which he expects to be able to clear up many points now in debate between Penn's Quaker champions and non-Quaker critics.

Financed by Quakers in the United States and in Great Britain and carried on in London with the Friends' headquarters at Devonshire house, Bishopsgate, as a center of operations and all the sect's historical collections and official records accessible, this magnum opus when published in the course of time will be rated highly as a posthumous tribute to a major figure in the colonization of Brit'ish folk in North America.

Professor Myers is a graduate of Swarthmore college, who has taught history at Swarthmore and mastered its methods as a graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania, at the University of Wisconsin and at Harvard. He is the author of many books and pamphlets bearing upon the early history of the colony and the state of Pennsylvania, and has few peers in knowledge of Quakerism. William Penn, apart from his relations to Quakerism and his patronage and pioneering courage in shaping the beginnings of colonies in New Jersey and Pennsylvania that were Utopian, at least in their beginnings, deserves to be better known than he is. He illustrated the possibilities of a simple religion going along with intellectual and social graces that made him a popular cosmopolitan as he traversed many lands. He was a champion of religious toleration in England when both Papists and Dissenters were harried equally fiercely. In his essay, "Towards the Present and Future Peace of Europe," he showed how nations must some day come before a great court of arbitration. In his book, "The Fruits of Solitude," he brings together maxims of conduct and religion that are singularly rich in insight. Robert Louis Stevenson had the highest respect for these seventeenth century illustrations of proverbial wisdom, and reading of them, he said, shaped his own ideals and conduct.

CROWD GOES TO LONG BEACH

(By Rev. J. H. Troy)

"All aboard for the Brown and Curry tabernacle meeting." Over one hundred from the nine churches of Casa Verdugo, Glendale and Tropic responded. The Brown and Curry special made good time to Long Beach carrying as earnest a company of people as ever left from the cities of the hills to the city by the sea. Many enjoyed a lap lunch provided by the wives and sweethearts, followed by gospel singing in competition with the grind of the cars. It rained, yes, but there was plenty of sunshine aboard the Brown and Curry special.

"Fall in line." The delegation from Glendale marched proudly up the main aisle to the reserved section in the huge tabernacle. What an inspiring spectacle! Curry and his chorus were a combination that sent a distinct thrill to the hearts of the visitors. And they were glad to see us and showed it. From the beginning Promoter Johnson (conductor on the car) wore a broad smile. The excursion was a pronounced success—singing, never better—preaching, Brown is a wonder. Such powerful preaching one seldom hears. The sermon on "Life and Death" has a grip on the mind and conscience and a few such sermons will do the work at Glendale.

We are all waiting. Brown and Curry will start in Glendale Feb. 14. Those who were along last night will tell you all about it. Pardon their vim. They have seen. From this on they will tell you of the great blessing to come to Glendale. Listen to them.

VERY COSTLY

It has cost the state of New York over $30,000 for the prosecution of Harry Thaw for Attorney Jerome (who got $22,500), the alienists, experts and stenographers. That is the bill they had to foot for pursuing a millionaire criminal for five years. And on his side it has cost Harry Thaw and his family fabulous sums.

Had the criminal been an inconspicuous citizen, the thing would have been all over and done with in a month or two at a reasonable cost, but because the offender has money he has been allowed to pile up the expense for the state and drag the case on for years.

DINNER AND CARDS

Mr. and Mrs. Perce H. Curtis of 1420 Oak street entertained the Triple K's at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. McKee on Wednesday evening. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock and was eaten at small tables. Miss Mildred McKee and Miss Reba Phillips serving very daintily. After dinner Miss Mildred McKee gave several readings, which were greatly enjoyed, and cards were played throughout the balance of the evening. The ladies' prize was won by Mrs. Desky, while Mr. Sam Daniels won the gentlemen's prize.

Mr. Samuel Daniels of Boston was special guest and others were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wightman, Mr. and Mrs. Goodman Phillips, Mr. Victor Daniels, Miss Eva Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. McKee, Miss Laura McKee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodridge, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Salo Desky, Mrs. Purser, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMullin. One of the club members, Mrs. Van Sant, was absent on account of illness and a round robin was sent her, each of the guests writing a message.

CHILDREN IN THE MUD

Do the people of Glendale know that at the Columbus avenue school there is not a single cross walk leading to the school building, which is entirely surrounded by dirt roads? Two hundred and fifty children are in that school this rainy day and every day. All must cross the road twice. Those who do not take lunch four times. To what more important use could a small part of the city funds be put than to construct these necessary cross-walks?

The writer sees no necessity of waiting until the whole street is improved for this small investment that will mean so much for the comfort and health of scholars and teachers. MRS. E. H. WILLISFORD.

CURTIS AND VAN BUREN

In a debate in the old Whig days a senator made a long speech in favor of Martin Van Buren as a presidential candidate, and referred to him in classical terms as "the Curtius of the republic."

"Bray" Dickinson of New York, a supporter of Seward for president, whispered to a neighbor, "Who 'in thunder is this man Curtis?"

"It isn't Curtis," his informant replied. "It's Curtius, and he threw himself into an abyss to save the Roman republic."

As soon as the speaker was seated Dickinson jumped up.

"Mr. President," he said, "I deny the justice of the gentleman's reference to Curtius and Van Buren. What, sir, did Curtius do? He threw himself into an abyss to save his country. What did Martin Van Buren do? He threw his country into an abyss to save himself."

JUST THE REVERSE

The English poet, Mr. Powys, told this anecdote, in which he claimed to have been the party of the second part. He said that he was talking to an old country woman on the occasion of the queen's jubilee in 1897. "What do you understand by the word jubilee?" he asked her. "Well," answered the old dame, "if you've been married fifty years and the man's alive, it's a golden wedding. If he's dead, it's a jubilee."

There is one type of man whose genius has been overlooked—the husband who can and does match dress goods exactly to suit his wife.

KITCHEN REPARTEE

Mrs. Brown was in the kitchen helping Nora, the cook, prepare supper.

"It's an old saying," she remarked to Nora, "that too many cooks spoil the broth. What do you think?"

"Sure, ma'am," the cook replied, "there's nothing to worry about; there's only wan cook here."—National Monthly.

The drivers in the Glendale race will not have to worry as to oil service stations or garages for repairs. There are a half dozen of the former and four of the latter along the two-mile course.

BRIDGE COMPLETED

ALHAMBRA, Jan. 28.—At a cost of $30,245, the new bridge over Mill creek, for which the residents of San Gabriel and Alhambra have been praying for the last year, has just been finished. At a late hour this afternoon the last load of dirt for the fill was hauled and the trustees of both cities are hoping that the finishing touches will be completed by Saturday night, thus allowing the visitors to the city, lured by the opening of the "Mission Play," to use the bridge.

GOETHALS

(By Percy Mackaye)

A man went down to Panama,
Where many a man had died,
To slit the sliding mountains
And lift the eternal tide;
A man stood up in Panama,
And the mountains stood aside.

The power that wrought the tide and peak

Wrought mightier the seer;
And the one who made the isthmus
He made the engineer,
And the good God made Goethals
To cleave the hemisphere.

The reek of fevered ages rose
From poisoned jungle and strand
Where the crumbling wrecks of failure

Lay sunk in the torrid sand—
Derelicts of old desperate hopes
And venal contraband.

Till a mind glowed white through the yellow mist
And purged the poison-mold,
And the wrecks rose up in labor,
And the fever's knell was tolled,
And the keen mind cut the world-
divide,
Untarnished by world-gold.

For a poet wrought in Panama
With a continent for his theme,
And he wrote with flood and fire
To forge a planet's dream,
And the derricks rang his dithy-
rambs
And his stanzas roared in steam.

But the poet's mind it is not his Alone, but a million men's;
Far visions of lonely dreamers
Meet there as in a lens,
And lightnings, pent by stormy
time,

Leap through with flame intense,
So through our age three giants loom

To vouch man's venturesome soul;
Amundsen on his ice-peak,
And Peary from his pole,
And midway where the oceans meet
Goethals—beside his goal.

Where old Balboa bent his gaze
He leads the liners through,
And the Horn that tossed Magellan
Bellows a far halloo,
For where the navies never sailed
Steamed Goethals and his crew.

So nevermore the tropic routes
Need poleward warp and veer,
But on through the Gates of Goethals

The steady keels shall steer,
Where the tribes of man are led toward peace

By the prophet-engineer.

WHITEHOUSE SQUIRREL TALE
BY A POLICEMAN

Were it not for the fact that "nature faking" in and around the White House is supposed to have received a death blow several years ago, the experience recently of one of the blue-coat guardians of the executive mansion might be disbelieved by the over-credulous.

One of the squirrels which, long before the present administration began, played about among the big trees and over the fine green lawn in front of the White House, according to the aforementioned policeman, kept running up to him and then scampering away. As he refused peanuts, the officer could not make out what he wanted.

Finally, the officer says, he noticed that every time the squirrel ran away from him, the little fellow would make for a water spigot in the grass and jump up at it as if trying to turn the handle. This gave the officer his cue. With Sherlock Holmes instinct, he turned on the water, which was exactly what the poor dumb creature wanted.—Selected.

RUSSIAN ARCHITECTURE

"In the field of architecture Russia has displayed real originality and can point in the churches of her ancient towns and of various remote villages to a number of masterpieces. There have been relapses and breaches of continuity here, too, but the interruptions in development have not been so serious and have not had such lasting effects as has been the case in painting," writes H. W. Williams in "Russia of the Russians."

"There is a distinct affinity between certain phases of ancient and certain phases of modern Russian architecture, an affinity independent of any desire to imitate. Perhaps this comparative consistency in architectural development is due to the fact that natural features, scenery, landscape, exercise a more directly determinative influence upon architecture than upon the other arts. Russian architecture at its best does harmonize in the most striking manner with the Russian landscape. There are no bold crags crowned by beetling fortresses. The Kremlin, the burg or citadel of the older Russian towns, is usually situated on a mound or, at the most, a hill of no great height, and does not stand out aggressively from its natural setting of river and plain. And even where citadels occupy an elevated and conspicuous position, as in Kiev and in Nizhni-Novgorod, they do not challenge, as the traveler approaches them from the river; they rather delight by their picturesqueness, and the domination they express over the surrounding plain seems to be rather contemplative than militant.

"Practically all that is left of ancient Russian architecture," continues Dr. Williams, "is its churches. But there are many of these, and they are splendid monuments to the genius of their builders. Byzantine models were soon adapted to Russian taste, and it is remarkable that this nationalization of ecclesiastical architecture by the Russians of the eleventh and twelfth centuries did not lead to degeneration. In fact, judging by the severity of taste displayed in the older churches of Novgorod, the Russians of that period, at any rate in Novgorod, were by no means such barbarians as they are commonly considered to have been. It was in Novgorod that the Russians began to build after their own mind, and the Novgorod of today with its scores of white churches by river and lake-side is a veritable museum of Russian ecclesiastical architecture."

Glendale's wide streets will serve to a good purpose in Saturday's race for they will permit broad, sweeping turns which are impossible on most race courses, especially those which go through the heart of town. Second street, the narrowest on the route, is made perfectly safe from side-swipe collisions as both Glendale avenue and Brand boulevard will allow easy and safe turns.

ATHLETIC?

Though the restaurant of the New York Athletic club was operated at a loss of nearly $4000 last year, its bar made a profit of nearly $34,000, according to the club's year book just issued.

The only thing many a man has done in the past is to dream of the future.
